Dear [REDACTED]

It would be my great honor to join you and your associates on the Genesis Ventures Advisory Board, and I appreciate your kind invitation.

I look forward to my first meeting. Jorge suggests 5:00 a.m. on Saturday mornings for getting together, as apparently he is always up at that time – your call.

For your records, I am enclosing a copy of my biography.

Kind regards,

Biography

LEO J. HINDERY, JR.

Leo J. Hindery, Jr., 51, is the President and a Director of Tele-Communications, Inc. (TCI). Mr. Hindery was elected President of TCI on March 1, 1997. TCI is the world's largest multiple cable system operator (MSO), and it owns interests in domestic and international programming, telephony and data service businesses. Mr. Hindery is also Chairman and President of TCI Communications, Inc. (TCIC). (Upon completion of the pending merger of TCI with AT&T, in early 1999, Mr. Hindery will become President of AT&T Consumer Services Company, AT&T's publicly-traded domestic telephony, video, data and wireless services company.)

Prior to joining TCI, Mr. Hindery was Managing General Partner and Chief Executive Officer of InterMedia Partners and its related entities, which he founded in 1988. InterMedia is the nation's ninth largest multiple system operator.

Before launching InterMedia Partners, Mr. Hindery was Chief Officer for Planning and Finance of The Chronicle Publishing Company of San Francisco, a major newspaper and television broadcast company and, at the time, a significant cable MSO. Prior to joining Chronicle, Mr. Hindery was Chief Financial Officer and Managing Director of Becker Paribas, Inc., a major New York-based investment banking firm. His career began with Utah International Inc. in 1971, where he became the company's senior financial officer, with responsibility for financings, acquisitions and development.

Mr. Hindery graduated with honors from Stanford University's Graduate School of Business in 1971, where he earned a master of business administration degree. He is a graduate with honors of Seattle University.

Mr. Hindery is a Director of Tele-Communications, Inc. and of @Home Network, Cablevision, Inc., Knowledge Enterprises, Inc., Lenfest Group, TCI Music, Inc., Tele-Communications International, Inc. and USA Networks, Inc.; Chairman, a Director and member of the Executive Committee of the National Cable Television Association (NCTA); Chairman, a Director and member of the Executive Committee of C-SPAN; Vice Chairman, a Director and a member of the Executive Committee of Cable in the Classroom; and an honorary chair of Cable Positive, the cable industry's AIDS awareness organization. Mr. Hindery is a member of the Stanford Business School Advisory Council.
